Concept

As the baby boom population reaches the retirement years, the down-sizing and transitioning to different homes is on the increase. In addition, many people are realizing that they simply don't need or want as much space to care for (heat, clean, furnish) as they initially may have desired and are looking at smaller home alternatives and simpler ways to live.

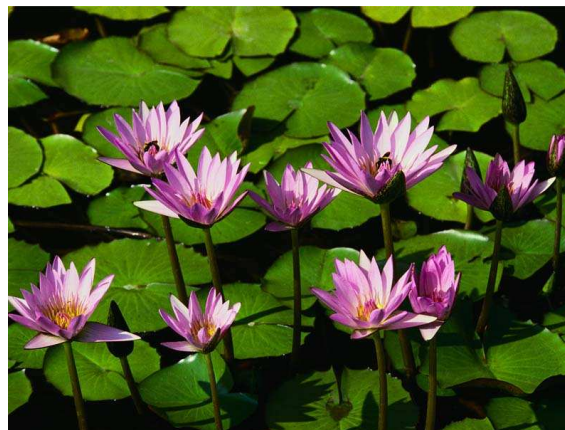

Whatever your reasons to be looking at this change in your life, the need for assistance in planning and executing these next steps can be significant.

NextStep by elements can help you make this transition more easily. NextStep provides assistance with the planning and execution of a move to a new home: whether it is to a condo, retirement center or simply a different house. We understand that this effort can be considerable, and sometimes simply too much to handle alone.

Services

Move Planning and Logistics

When a client begins to plan for a move-- whether it be down-sizing or simply 'changing places', the tasks at hand can be overwhelming. While family members may sincerely want to be involved and helpful, the miles between them all can be prohibitive in getting the tasks accomplished. We understand that there will be others who want and need to be involved at different levels in this process and will act to organize this process. We will be there on site to assist.

Sorting and Organizing of Personal Belongings

Decisions will need to be made about what belongings to move, share, sell or discard. In addition, there may be items that should be distributed to other family members near and far. This is where we can be of help! We will assist with the sorting, selling and organizing of these belongings.

Customized Floor Plans

The thought that goes into planning the new interior is important. We will create a customized floor plan to ensure that all furniture is positioned for optimum fit and functionality. We will place special emphasis on how the client will be living in and using their new space.

Unpacking and Setting up the New Home.

Once the move is planned, and things are organized and sorted, moving day arrives! We will be there to ensure that all your items in the new home get unpacked, organized, and the furniture is arranged, and ready for each client to feel as comfortable in their new home as quickly as possible!
